THE OLD MISSION HOUSE, HONOLULU, 1908

THE SECRETARY'S REPORT

Look at the picture, then come in fancy to the Old Mission Home. It is winter, but the grass is green and the brilliant Bougainvillea is in bloom on the little side porch next the office. An aged palm stands in front, a little kukui tree and a few young palms have been set out, and at the back are a "Pride of India" and a mango. An ivy clambers over the coral kitchen and there is a bed of blooming flowers.

The house is white as in the days of long ago, but the windows are bare. The old front door with its knocker is there, and the inside is freshly whitewashed. In each room is a framed record telling bits of history, but the many little cupboards, closets and tiny rooms under the eaves seem to whisper quaint stories, and the whole atmosphere is charged with the mystery of long ago. The old fireplace with its crane can be seen in the kitchen, and the basement dining-room five steps down, is paved, in part with the original bricks. The office is the two-story coral house five feet away with the solid cement floor and the many shelves built into its thick walls. It was no doubt built for the first printing office, but was afterward used as a dwelling by the Halls, Cookes, and others. It has been freshly cemented and plastered, and is considered insect-proof. A large, square koa centretable and ten chairs constitute the furniture. Boxes of Reports and papers are being emptied and their contents labeled and arranged on the shelves. Here are the Maile Wreaths, files of H. M. C. Reports and manuscripts, and here are to be kept the albums. Here the Recorder's work will be done, and from this office the Annual Reports will be sent out to you.

A House warming was given here on April 4th, 1908. The officers of the Society and others received the Cousins and their friends in the old historic reception room where royalty was entertained in the long ago, and where, no doubt, every missionary to these sunny islands has gathered in consultation and knelt in prayer. Many guests went up the winding stairs to the chambers above, out to the stone kitchen and down to the cellar dining and store rooms before going through to the makai lawn where chairs were arranged for the audience.

A triangular platform filled the corner between the kitchen and main building. This was draped on two sides with cocoanut leaves, canopied by a sail from a Hawaiian schooner and covered with two large Hawaiian mats. Old-time furniture was quite in keeping with the surroundings, and from the quaint platform Mrs. W. F. Frear greeted the audience in these words:

"Good afternoon, Cousins, one and all! Welcome to the 'Old Mission Home,' in the restoration of which we all rejoice. Some of our industrious Cousins have put their heads together over plans reminiscent of our forebears. A brief program has been arranged, and it is hoped that its very simplicity will appeal to you all, as appropriate to the spirit and life of our missionary grandparents.

"Our Cousin Mary (Cooke) (Atherton) Richards will read a few old letters, and as she reads let us picture the joy of mail day on an island separated from other islands, not by a steamer voyage of hours, but by a schooner voyage of weeks; or let us picture a mail day after a voyage around Cape Horn!

"The furniture you see on this lanai has been gathered from different mission homes—the Parker table, the Andrews cradle, the Smith rocker, the Armstrong high-chair.

"Do you think the modern woman pitifully lacking in repose because of her many social, charitable and educational engagements, and long for the 'good old times'? You shall see a (reproduced) missionary mother who had sent six children to school, trained three awkward pupil-servants, baked, mended, visited two sick neighbors, and in calash and shawl about to attend a woman's prayer-meeting, called back to the cradle by a missionary child waking contrary to habit.

"'Hush, my dear, lie still and slumber.'

"Later we shall witness a dramatic presentation of an old-time missionary sewing circle, supposedly held during the General Meeting of 1840. Our Cousin James A. (Judd) Wilder has with a most sympathetic hand, woven together various incidents and anecdotes from unwritten missionary history, into a brief drama of one scene. No apologies need be made for any anachronisms as to pretense to be more than a composite picture. The missionary mothers are represented by grand and great-grand-daughters, and the old-time dress will enhance family resemblances and are sure to be pleasing to those who remember dear faces gone."

Mrs. Frear then read the following letter from Dr. S. E. Bishop:

Honolulu, April 3, 1908.

To Mrs. Robert W. Andrews,

Sec'y of Cousins' Society.

DEAR MADAM:—In view of the gathering of the Society at the old Mission Home to-morrow, may I, as the oldest survivor of their number, and debarred by infirmity from being present, send my cordial greetings?

That old house holds a strong place in my cherished memories, as the home of the Bingham family in the thirties, and in which the Bishop family repeatedly were guests during the General Meetings.

I wish to specify my earliest distinct memory of the house. It was in the afternoon of May 17, 1832,—seventy-six years ago, when I was five years old. The whaleship "Averick" had just arrived, and landed the large Fourth Reinforcement of Missionaries.

This large company of young people were gathered into the Bingham Parlor to meet the older missionaries. I was present, and was especially attracted by the pleasant aquiline features of the young Wm. P. Alexander, a type of face quite new to my experience. He sat close to the west side of the door leading to the dining-room. The Armstrongs, Lymans, Emersons, etc., were seated around the room.

These young folks soon were helping to make much history, as well as to beget a notable progeny.

May your meeting to remember the Fathers and Mothers be pleasant and profitable. Faithfully yours,

SERENO E. BISHOP.

Another number, not on the program, was acted by Mrs. Richards' little boy in kilts, who stood, for a time at her side, leaving five little yellow finger-prints on her white dress, and then, all unconscious of the many eyes upon him, sat down and with his foot rocked the old cradle with its patch-work quilt. This was an impromptu introduction to the Lullaby which followed. The child was personated by Mrs. Lydia Bingham Coan's doll, over seventy years old.

(Enter—Leah and Ruth.)

Leah.—I think it would be cooler here. Let us bring our things out of doors for once. I begin to think our New England ideas of house building were rather unsuited to the climate of Hawaii.

Ruth.—Does baking day make your whole house sizzle, too?

Leah.—Why, my dear, we haven't baked in the brick oven for months; not since Brother R. invented what he calls a stove—iron plates with holes for the kettle and a place underneath for baking—so convenient!

(Enter—Naomi and Rachel.)

Naomi (to Rachel).—Please let me help you move this chair. You—you—look a little tired today.

Rachel.—I shouldn't be. Ever since leaving Puna I have sat with folded hands—just as you are making me do now, my lovely sisters.

Leah.—And with all our hearts. It is time you had some rest, poor overworked little woman! You must give yourself up now to the simple pleasures of the "General Meeting."

Naomi.—Such as sewing circle and visiting.

Leah (to Naomi).—That's right. Sit near her and (aside) make her smile once—if only once. I must look to my bread. (Exit.)

Ruth.—We're to have bread made of the new flour.

Naomi.—Fresh flour, nice, snowy and sweet! and white sugar and —oh, ever so many good things have come for us around the Horn.

Ruth.—More cast-off bonnets, I suppose,—though I'm sure I'll be glad of one—and yards and yards of calico—though why my family of girls should have no more than yours of boys I don't see—and some suitable stuff for men's clothes, I hope. I had a letter from Sister R. She is still feeling sensitive over the report of their extravagance! Poor dear! (Laughter.) All because she made Mr. R. a pair of badly needed trousers out of her old black satin skirt!

Rachel.—What is the name of the ship?

Ruth (gaily).—The event of the year! The good ship "Velocity"—Captain Bligh—200 days from Boston—bringing three families of missionaries and general stores.

Rachel.—We came in the "Velocity," you know.

Ruth.—Yes, I know—won't you—

Rachel.—As we left the wharf in South Boston, our dear friends stood singing, bare-headed, in the falling snow—wishing us God-speed and thinking that they had secured for us as comfortable a voyage as forethought could devise. Off Cape Hatteras—while our hearts were still melted with recent leave-takings, and the never, never absent thought that our parting was forever—the captain ordered us out of his cabin and informed us that we must find our own place to cook. His galley was for officers and crew. We could sleep in sail-rooms and paint-lockers—and could—

Naomi.—Oh, (interrupting her gently), do not dwell upon it. We know the story only too well. All of us were not so unfortunate, and Captain Bligh is a changed man these days. Why, he even takes his hat off to Father B., whom he once ordered aloft, if you please!

Ruth.—It takes time to establish respect for our cause among such men, but we have done it at last.

(Enter Leah with a great basket of clothing.)

Leah.—Now then, ladies, we have made twelve little night-shirts for twelve little missionaries. Six pairs of—ahem—unmentionables for growing boys and—(sighs)—we will now proceed to make two dozen frilled shirts for the king!

Naomi.—Wouldn't he be satisfied with six?

Leah.—Not a bit of it! Besides, remember, he has helped us very much lately. We mustn't begrudge him these—these trifles.

Ruth (holding up little nightgown).—Render to Caesar that which is Caesar's.

Leah.—The king is doing better these days. Do not let us miss any opportunities to keep his interest in us growing. (Sees Alice and Ann.) Sunshine and roses! Welcome, sisters! (Enter Alice and Ann.)

Alice.—At last! (Embraces all in turn.) We got lost in the taropatches by Fort Lane—poor Sister Ann fell in—I couldn't help laughing—I hope you didn't mind.

Ann.—Mind? My soul is thrilled with admiration. You are so nimble! But look at my shoes!

Leah.—We were afraid you would be too weary after your long voyage.

Ann.—I weary? With these green mountains to feast my eyes on and the dry land underfoot?

Alice.—Dry in places, sister.

Ann.—But land,—land,—nevertheless. Oh, I could never weary of the beauty—of this unspeakable loveliness!

Rachel.—Come here, sister. So fresh and bright-eyed! You will weary of it, for the green hills shadow many unspeakable things—heathenism basks in the sunlight—sorrow in the scent of the flowers.

Ann.—Ah,—I see where my first work lies! You must be cheered up, that is plain. (Kisses her.)

Ruth.—She'll do it if anybody can. What lovely clothes she has on!

Puffed sleeves, sister!

Ann.—Yes, but don't judge the mode by me. I'm fully 200 days behind the times, and this was the very plainest dress in Boston.

Naomi.—You look to us like the Queen of Sheba.

Leah (raising eyebrows).—Sister!

Ruth.—What did Boston look like? Was it snowing, and—were they skating in the Common and—all that?

Ann (rhapsody).—The frost was on the panes—woe-begone little birds pecked at the windows—while as far as the eye could see, the snow covered the hills and the roofs of Boston. The limbs of the firs hung heavy with frost—and—and— (Rachel weeps.)

Leah (to Ann).—There, my dear! She is just recovering from a very severe illness. It made her homesick. (Wipes a tear.)

Ann.—I see. But oh, Hawaii! Exquisite, exquisite! What, these lovely zephyrs all the year—never any days but June days? How I love it all! How can people be wicked under skies like these?

Leah.—It isn't wickedness, dear; only ignorance. And so to teach—teach—teach—that is our work. Every day and all day—guiding, chiding, persuading, and praying—we never give them up until they are steadfast and faithful to the word of Christ. And they are coming over—more and more of them. Mr. "M." preached yesterday to 2,000 natives. Perhaps you would like to hear a letter from an outstation.

Omnes.—Indeed we would!

Leah.—Alice reads so well—perhaps—

Alice.—Oh, I don't mind. (Reads.) "Napoopoo, Dec. 30, 1839. My dear brother and sister—(This is written to Mr. and Mrs. Watson at Ewa)—As the schooner 'Kamehameha' sails tomorrow for Honolulu, with 180 tons of sandalwood for the king, and bales of silk for his sister, I have been able to send you a box of garden truck, cabbages, radishes and potatoes, and a seed of the 'mango,' a sort of pear. This tree ought to flourish if planted near water, and I hope you will make something of it. The fruit is delicious. We are in our usual health; no smallpox yet."

Ann.—Smallpox!

Leah.—Alas! We have been scourged by different diseases, dear,—all have left us fewer in number. The measles is fatal to Hawaiians, and even mumps kills many. Now they think we are going to have smallpox—

Alice (reading on).—"Some evil-minded person set fire to our school-house last week, but the rogue escaped."

Ann.—Who could have wished to destroy a school-house?

Leah.—This is hard to explain. We are misunderstood by the first settlers here—white men. To them we owe the distilleries and the drunkenness, so hard to combat. To these bad men can be traced most of the debauchery of the times. They have fought us with a fury worthy of a better cause, but, as I said, a better time is showing itself. Even they are coming to respect us. You have come, my dear, at a time of hope and encouragement, but if you had been here when I first came—

Ruth.—Tell her of the sweeter side. Don't fill her ears with the past—

Ann.—Oh, yes; the past, too. I do so want to hear all you have gone through.

Rachel.—A little might do to mark our progress.

Ruth.—You were stationed here at first, were you not, sister?

Rachel.—Here, yes. Our house was a grass hut no higher than my head, and had a quilt hanging up for a partition. We were obliged to cook in the open air, and this performance was witnessed by hundreds of natives who crowded so close that my fire would not burn. What with this and my hands raw with grating the flour, and—

Ann.—Grating flour!

Leah.—The flour was wet and mildewy, and arrived in sodden bricks.

Alice.—Precious stuff it was! Speaking of bread, sisters, did you ever hear how ingeniously one of our families on the big island made their flour last? The children were promised that the one who ate the most taro should have the most bread. Result—the little things stuffed themselves so full of taro that there was bread to spare.

Rachel.—But washing was the hardest. We took the clothes up into Nuuanu stream, and there, surrounded by natives—

Alice.—Well, if a band of Hawaiians suddenly appeared in Concord, Mass., and began beating a drum or pounding poi, wouldn't our Yankee small boys crowd around? By the way, where is sister Abigail?

Leah.—Sister S. is not coming to "General Meeting."

Alice.—No?

Naomi.—No; the sea trip, short as it is compared with our awful week from Lahaina, is too much for one so delicate as Sister S.

Alice.—Did you know that I am going to visit her after General Meeting? Yes; we've engaged a double canoe to take all our family to Ewa—to Ewa and return after a week's visit, for twelve yards of cloth.

Rachel.—Sister B. is coming up the Pali in a basket.

Leah.—I have hopes of making a little butter next week. Will you take a bowlful to Sister S.? I believe it would be a real treat to her.

Naomi.—The pot boils!

Leah.—Then let us take tea. Real tea this time!

Ann (questioning).—Why real tea?

Rachel (as they move near the table).—The tea usually spoils coming out here, and we used a wild flower instead. Oh, believe me, a very good substitute!

Ruth (to Alice).—I wouldn't waste good thread on the lining.

Better use banana fiber for that.

Alice.—The king might object. How do you think His Majesty will look in this? (Holds up an enormous shirt.)

Ruth.—Beautifully done, sister!

Alice.—Oh, I'm so very clever. By the way, such a commotion last week, Sister Ann! The American Consul's flag discovered at half-mast!

Ann.—Why, who?

Alice.—One of Naomi's boy's pranks. The family cat was dead.

Ruth.—Boys will be boys.

Rachel.—Indeed they will! (Smiles.)

Ann.—She smiles—the day is won! Go on, Sister Alice, go on!

Alice.—Have you heard of poor Brother A.? His sense of humor gets him into trouble so very often—as does mine very frequently. The night that he and Brother P. arrived at Sister F.'s house, Brother P. said to Brother A., "Which side of the bed will you take?" Brother A. replied, "The top side." Brother P. is still grieved at Brother A.'s selfishness.

Leah.—Before tea, let us all sing the Missionary Hymn. One verse of "Greenland!" (All sing. The last notes are interrupted by the mele, Pakaalana.)

Leah.—Whose mele is that?

Ruth.—Kalaeokaeio's.

Leah.—The premier, the king's sister, on her way to see us!

Naomi.—Tea postponed!

(Enter chiefess with kahili-bearers and attendants.)

Chiefess.—Pau! (Waves her hand to chorus, music stops short. To ladies). Aloha oukou! (All rise. Holds Leah's hands). Aloha, Leah! How are you all? How is the sick one? Better?

Rachel.—Very much better, almost well.

Chiefess.—Then I suppose you'll go back—up there among the lava beds. I hope you like it there. I should not.

Rachel.—I know I ought to go back to duty; therefore I do it and am happy.

Ruth (aside to Ann).—She really is, you know.

Chiefess.—Yes; that is your new way to be happy. In the old days—

Leah.—Ah—ah—Your Highness (shaking her finger) we have decided to think only of the present and future—today and tomorrow—

Chiefess (smiling).—Not mamua—not yesterday?

Leah.—No; take care of today and tomorrow—yesterday will take care of itself.

Chiefess (draws her up).—You always make your manao—your thought—easy to understand, old teacher. Who is this one?

(All are sitting around the Chiefess, the centre of attraction.)

Leah.—A little malihini. Come, sister,—I wish to present Mrs. Wishingford, a new teacher, a new missionary. The Chiefess is Kalaeokaoio, grand-daughter of Kamehameha, Governess of Oahu: Prime Minister and co-puissant with the king. (Kalaeokaoio bows.)

(Ann drops a courtesy.)

Chiefess.—She pleases me. Mai! (Kisses her a la Hawaiian.) You are pink and have bright eyes. These others all look tired.

Ann.—But I haven't been put to work yet, Highness.

Chiefess.—You needn't work. Come and live with me! (Aside to attendants.) E hele oukou e lawe mai na moena. (Two attendants exeunt.) Come and learn to ride, to swim and surf—to ride the waves and climb the mountains. I know all the flowers and the birds. They shall come at our call. Will you come?

Ann.—I-must you—we—that is—

Rachel.—She hesitates—

Leah.—Not so, sister. She gathers strength. Look!

Ann (holding the Queen's hands in hers.) We have each of us something to learn—one of the other. All I have to impart is yours and I shall hope to learn many beautiful things of you, too.

Chiefess.—I could teach you to make mats. Here are some. Give her that one—ma o. Give each a mat. (Aside to Ann).—The one you have is from Niihau, an island away up north—far from here—and it is worth more than all the others put together.

Ann (taking a mat. Aside to Leah).—Shall I?

Leah.—Yes; this is the way of her. Her heart is very great, and she thinks always of making others happy. (To Kalaeokaoio).—You see how pleased we are at your manao.

Chiefess.—Ae. (To Ann).—You see this is the way we sew—this is our handicraft. (Shows mats.)

Ann.—Exquisite!

Chiefess.—Your dress is a different kind—fuller, looser,—I must have one like it. Will you make it?

Ann.—Better still, Highness. Let me teach all these young women how to sew and cut.

Chiefess.—These? You'll have a task on your hands. I've had to give special orders that they shall keep their surf-boards dry for two hours every day while they learn to spell. No; they won't sew as well as you do. You'll make the dress!

Ann.—Indeed, yes.

Chiefess.—Good. (To attendants).—Go, bring that cloth from my hand-cart! (Exeunt attendants.) Your dress is—I don't know—hookano.

Ann.—This dress was given me by my Sunday School children before I left America. Each contributed her little mite—(interruption)— Chiefess.—Now—make yourself—all of you, make yourselves dresses. I will contribute this time. There is plenty of it. Here it is.

Unroll it. So! (They unroll the silk, damask, satin bales.)

Leah.—Mercy!

Rachel.—Preserve us!

The rest.—Oh! (All stand.)

Chiefess.—From China, in exchange for sandal wood. Made of the web of a worm—can you believe it?

Ann.—What colors. (Claps hands in admiration.)

Chiefess.—Enough for all of us. Your dress is too plain by far. (To Leah).—You shall have a dress of this. (Drapes her shoulders with a purple roll.) These are the colors of the morning when the sun rises over Molokai; the tints of Manoa and Konahuanui when he sinks to rest. Which will you have, my daughter?

Ann (to Rachel, who is anxiously watching).—Sister—I understand, dear, but how save her feelings? (Embarrassed.)

Chiefess.—What! not good enough?

Rachel.—No, no, not that, dear kind heart. We understand your thought. We are very grateful, but we, long ago, gave up these vanities. Our mission out here is to teach you the Greatest Thing in the world, and, lest our minds be led away, from our mission among your people, we wear only the plainest of clothes. For we are teaching the happiness that comes from following the life of the Man of Sorrows, who died for us,—yes, for you too,—and He was humble and meek and poor. Would you have our minds led away from our teaching?

Chiefess.—No, no. But yet I know that He dressed the mountains, the distant mountains with the rainbow that guides the raindrops to the parched earth. "He has covered Himself with light as with a garment." Yet you are right. These colors, though they pale before God's handiwork, denote vanity. Vanity is a jealous friend—it takes one's time away. I would not be vain, or idle. Ah, well,—Good-byc. Come and see me soon. E hoi kakou. (Kahili-bearers move forward.)

Ann.—Don't be angry.

Chiefess.—I angry, now? I hope you will never see me angry, never. I used to be so—(checks herself)—but I forget. "Let yesterday take care of itself." Good-bye all! As for these—let them lie here Tabu—Kapu! Symbols of a heart too light to think—lie there until the world is cleansed and we are all fit to wear the colors of the morning light. (Exits proudly with kahili-bearers.)

Leah.—In her our hopes are strong.

Rachel.—At last she has known a wish ungratified.

Ann.—And how nobly she can renounce!

Naomi.—The kettle is still boiling!

Leah.—Then come, do come to tea. I have not much variety to offer you, sisters, bread and treacle. Pull chairs up to table.

Ruth.—Real bread?

Leah.—Real bread.

Naomi.—And real treacle?

Leah.—Real treacle! And I can serve it in one of two ways—plain or crinklety-cranklety. Which way will you have it, little guest?

Ann.—Crink—(looks at silk)—plain.

Tableau.

The entertainment closed with a recitation of a poem, "The Little Sewing Bird," by Mrs. Frear, happily rendered by another Cousin, Mary (Thurston) (Taylor) Kluegel:

TO A SEWING BIRD

Sing, little bird, of the long ago When our little girl grandmothers learned to sew; Sing, little sewing bird, sing, Large of mouth and silver of wing, sing! Stitch after stitch in the long white seam, The end in your mouth, so you could not scream Impatient, nor warble, nor sing, Screwed to the table; now, little bird, sing! Had they time to dream, so long ago, Our little girl grandmothers learning to sew? Work was in plenty, and toys were few, But you were a tool and a plaything, too. Stand on your crimson cushion and sing; Little sewing bird, sing! Hand over hand on the hem or the seam,— Yes, there was many an hour to dream. But which of their dreams have ever come true? I know not. Little bird, do you? Little sewing bird of the silver wing,— Sing, bird, sing!

MARY D. FREAR.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

The Cousins gathered for the Annual Meeting in the Old Mission

Home at half-past three on Saturday afternoon, April 25.

"Blest Be the Tie" was sung, and Dr. John Gulick led in prayer. The Secretary's report was given, and L. A. Dickey being absent the Treasurer's report was read by W. F. Dillingham.

The Kawaiahao girls then favored us with two musical numbers, "Foaming Waves of the Sea," and "Praise to the Creator," the harmony and distinct enunciation deserving great praise.

Then followed Mrs. B. F. Dillingham's excellent paper, reminiscent of her father and mother, and a most interesting letter, read by the President, and written by Princess Bernice Pauahi (Bishop) when a lovely young girl of sixteen in the Royal School.

R. W. Andrews told of the death of Mrs. Abbie Marina Tinker Purdon together with something of her life history, and Miss Agnes Judd read some verses written by Robert Tinker, her brother, in 1857, a tribute to this loved sister born upon the sea.

F. W. Damon read an article by Mrs. Lydia Bingham Coan, descriptive of the early mission homes, and the coming into possession of this princely mansion, as told in a bound volume of Reports, and especially appropriate to this meeting—the first annual meeting since the renovation.

Remarks of worth and interest were made by F. W. Damon, G. R. Carter and Mrs. Dillingham about securing relics and mementos of the missionaries, and the President called attention to a copy of the first edition of the Hawaiian Gospels, bound in scarlet, also two volumes of the Hawaiian Bible. The latter had belonged to the king, to R. C. Wyllie and to Father Andrews. These were among the treasures presented to the Society within the past two months.

The President called attention to the leis on the table. They had just been thrown from the steamer by our departing Cousins, the Garlands, who also sent their love and wished they could be at the meeting. These wreaths were afterward placed on the grave of Mrs. Bingham, who had been as a mother to the Garland family, by Mrs. Judd and her daughter Agnes. The meeting closed with one verse of

"Greenland's Icy Mountains."

MISSIONARY DELAPORTE AND FAMILY

OUR MISSIONARIES

"Beautiful upon the mountain are the feet of them that bring good tidings," precious is the memory of the Fathers and Mothers, and honorable are the names of those Cousins who have gone forth to publish peace!

Last year's report told of our missionaries, Rev. and Mrs. Delaporte, on their way to their fatherland. They stopped on their return, Nov. 6th, looking fresh and rested. Indeed, we scarcely recognized the pretty, neatly dressed young lady with the fresh complexion and bright brown eyes as the weary, broken-down woman who left us a few months before. That trip had been well earned, and the money for it was well spent.

During their absence they so interested their home churches that they are sending out a helper, a young German lady, trained as a nurse and as a musician, to be an inmate of their home, and to assist

Mrs. Delaporte in her arduous duties.

The natives of Nauru were sorely tried by sickness and death during their missionaries' absence, but remained true to their faith in God and confidence in their ministers. By gathering cocoanuts, reducing them to copra, and carrying them to market at the rate of 1000 cocoanuts for $1.50, these natives raised $250 during the summer, for the purpose of building a permanent church of foreign lumber and nails, as their thatched buildings had been repeatedly blown down. Mr. Delaporte asked Central Union Church to supply funds to complete this church. This they did in four days, without any collection being taken. They raised the $750 needed for the church, $250 for additional house room for the young lady helper, and $130 for a wooden ceiling to keep off the heat of the iron roof in that tropical land.

Mr. and Mrs. Delaporte remained with us only nine days, and on Nov. 15 sailed with their two youngest children for Sydney, by way of Hong Kong.

They arrived at Nauru Jan. 24, to the great joy of the natives, but it was a sad home-coming, for about 150 had died, and many were sick. "The island, so sweet and healthy, is now saturated with disease. We never knew anything about typhoid fever, dysentery, whooping-cough, scarlet fever and beri-beri here, but times and conditions have changed. I ascribe the introduction of these epidemical diseases to the Chinese, who are seemingly not a high grade of coolies."

Rev. and Mrs. Irving Channon, for seventeen years missionaries at Kusaie, with four of their nine children, made a short visit in Honolulu, on their way to work again among the Gilbert Islanders. They expect to establish a new station on Ocean Island. Ocean Island is a British possession, formerly inhabited by a degraded, despised people, some of whom were converted at the school on Kusaie. Now it is the scene of busy activity because of the discovery of rich deposits of phosphates. Mr. Channon's health has improved, and Mrs. Channon is said to look younger than she did years ago. Later, we hear that the Channons were fellow-passengers with the Delaportes from Sydney, and that they arrived safe at Ocean Island.

Miss Jennie Olin, a teacher for two years in the Girls' School on Kusaie, wrote a private letter to one in Honolulu, which was published in The Friend. We quote a few paragraphs: "Our house is built out of the debris of the old house and four or five others, destroyed in the hurricane of 1905. It is a little cottage about 16 x 30 feet, containing two rooms and an attic, and surrounded on three sides by a veranda. In the attic the girls sleep—all but six, who overflow into the room which they use during the day for school-room and general living-room. My bed occupies one corner of the front veranda and our dining-table another corner of it. The front room is Miss Wilson's and my sitting-room, but it often has to be used for other purposes. Miss Wilson has a tiny shanty to herself, about 10 x 12 with a thatched roof. She tried sleeping in our sitting-room but with the noise overhead she had no rest at all. I have one little cubby-hole to myself, a part of the veranda, 6 x 10, being enclosed. In this I have my dressing-room, my writing table and all the sewing materials for the school. It is better than nothing at all. Beyond the house proper is a little dolly-house kitchen. I can stand in front of the fire and reach nearly everything in that kitchen. The girls have their own cooking shed and eating house, which is only a roof and a floor. In rainy weather it is wet and disagreeable. There are forty-one girls living in the house with us-I do not think we could make room for one more. I have seven recitations daily, using three languages besides English, sewing school for nearly two hours every afternoon and my part of the house-work. Add to this the Sabbath-School on Sunday, a Wednesday evening meeting, a Thursday afternoon meeting every other week with the girls, and on Friday a two hours' class with the superintendents of the various Sunday Schools of Kusaie, topped off with a preaching service an hour or more long, in which I am expected to find and impart the next Sunday's sermon to all the four preachers of the day. When Friday night comes I am limp."

Miss Louise E. Wilson, injured in the fearful hurricane but remaining with the school, writes, in the Missionary Herald of Jan., 1908, a very interesting account of seven weeks spent visiting among the Gilbert Islands; having a tooth pulled by a Fijian doctor; taking a three-mile buggy ride with the old king behind a galloping horse and clinging with both hands to the jolting vehicle; talking on Sunday, Wednesday and Friday meetings, and answering questions for long successive hours.

Rev. Wm. Gulick of Madrid, Spain, tells in the Missionary Herald of the revolution of popular thought in Northern Spain, respecting evangelical teaching and Protestant doctrines. "The people are confronted with the fact that it produces virtue, patriotism and civic strength, and Protestantism is no longer a word with which to frighten simple people."

Rev. John and Mrs. Erdman, though still in Japanese work, have removed from Yamaguchi, Japan, to Waialua, Oahu. As many of the Japanese of Oahu are from Yamaguchi prefecture, the Hawaiian Board made out a call for Mr. Erdman to take charge of these Japanese together with the Hawaiians of that part of the Island. Their many friends here rejoice in having them back in Hawaii nei.

A lovely letter from Cousin Lucia Lyons to Agnes Judd, on Chinese paper, half-covered with fleur-de-lis, tells of the busy every-day life of a Chinese missionary; of a funeral six miles away with its wailing and great publicity of family grief; of the week of prayer; and of New Year's vacation soon to arrive, when not only boys and girls but teachers and their families and all the hospital patients who are not actually on their death-beds leave, and the place becomes empty and desolate. When the Girls' School opens again Miss Lyons will be in charge. The school year will close about July 1st, and part of the hot summer she will spend at the seaside.

THE SCHOOLS

In these days, when educational methods tread upon each other, and improvements advance by leaps and bounds, it is well to occasionally take a look backward to the beginnings, and thus keep in touch with the past.

When mission work began in these Islands, every station had its school. The pupils were mostly among the retainers of the chiefs, and as soon as these had learned to read a little they were sent out by the chiefs as teachers, and thus the schools multiplied. In 1832 there were nine hundred schools, and those who had learned to read were estimated at from 23,000 to 30,000. But the teachers soon exhausted their little stock of knowledge, and interest in schools began to decline. For this reason it was decided to establish a school for the instruction of teachers.

Lahainaluna Seminary was voted into existence in June, 1831. The land, ten acres of taro land in the valley, and one thousand acres of red dirt and rocks on the upland, was given by Princess Kalakua, a sister of Kaahumanu, and wife of Hoapili.

During the summer Rev. Lorrin Andrews and Rev. Jonathan Green daily headed a procession of future students to the mountains for timber. They cut down trees, hewed them to the thickness of the plank needed, and dragged them by hand for miles. Over this framework they erected the walls and roof of the school building, and then put up temporary homes for teacher and pupils—the students being all married men. That they were temporary was illustrated when the teacher's house, a light, thatched frame, collapsed during the night in a northerly storm and a deluge of red mud flowed among and over their belongings.

The school opened, Sept. 5, 1831, with twenty-five young men under Rev. Lorrin Andrews as teacher. The course was to embrace four years. Teacher and pupils entered upon their work with enthusiasm. The students had to provide food for themselves and their families. Day by day and month by month, under every disadvantage, sitting on the ground floor, half-naked and half-starved, they studied patiently and worked faithfully during that first year.

During this year and in the summer of 1832 they collected stone for a floor, hewed them a little, laid them down and pointed them with lime mortar. They collected coral for lime, brought fuel on their shoulders from the mountains with which to burn it, and plastered the walls of the house outside and in. They made writing tables, seats, doors and window-shutters.

With these improvements, the second year began with a greatly enlarged school and new courage. Another building was put up and more text-books translated. Besides reading they were now studying geography, Fowle's Child's Arithmetic, Colburn's intellectual arithmetic, and before the end of the year writing and map-drawing. At the end of the year an examination was held and pupils "did themselves much credit." The number of scholars had increased during the year from sixty-three to eighty-five.

During the third year more books were translated, composition was regularly attended to, and much attention was given to the grammar of the language. In December, 1833, a poor, second-hand Ramage press with a few type was received, a building was ready for it in January, and in February, 1834, was printed the first number of the first Hawaiian newspaper, "Ka Lama Hawaii," The Signal Light. Each number was illustrated by a wood-cut. Copper-plate engravings were used later.

At the General Meeting of 1834 it was decided to erect permanent buildings at the expense of the mission, and to secure an additional teacher. Rev. E. W. Clark was chosen, and in October Rev. Sheldon Dibble joined the faculty. A better printing press and a better supply of type were granted. Work could now be done more systematically. Among the things taught were music, penmanship, elocution, composition, Biblical instruction, Hawaiian grammar, mathematics, history, science, map-drawing, engraving, printing, binding, carpentry and mason-work. The school was organized as a normal, for the instruction of teachers, but necessity made it a school where many kinds of manual labor were taught—the best instruction the teachers could have. Religious training was not omitted, for Rev. Clark wrote in 1834, "God has been visiting us," and the following year a church was formed with Rev. S. Dibble as pastor.

In 1835 Mr. E. H. Rogers was located at Lahaina to take charge of the printing-press. The school now numbered 125, but during the year, and at its close, all but thirty-six were sent out to labor at the various stations. In the summer of 1836 the boarding-school department was added for boys too young to earn their own expenses. This greatly added to the care and expense. The new buildings were going up as fast as possible, but were not completed when, in 1837, there came a circular calling for retrenchment. This stopped all progress in building, and left a cloud of disappointment hanging over the school. Sickness and death in Mr. Dibble's family caused him to leave in Nov., 1837, and soon after, ill-health compelled Rev. Clark to take a vacation. So until 1839 all departments of care, labor and instruction in the school rested upon one man, the principal, and that at a time when this and all other stations were needing more workers. Revs. Clark and Dibble were both back in 1840, and the school prosperous.

In 1842, a careful inquiry showed that of the 158 living, who had been pupils, 105 were teachers, 35 Government officers, seven in other useful employments, and only eleven doing nothing.

In April, 1842, because of imperative need of change for his invalid wife, Rev. Andrews resigned.

For some years no records can be found, but approximately the following is correct:

In August, 1842, Rev. J. S. Emerson was sent to the assistance of Messrs. Clark and Dibble and remained four years. Rev. Clark left in 1843 and Rev. W. D. Alexander took his place and remained as principal till 1857. During his incumbency, in 1849, the Seminary was taken over by the government, which agreed to pay all expenses and not interfere with the religious teaching.

Rev. John F. Pogue was there from 1851 till 1866, part of which time he had the principalship.

In July of 1862 the main building was burned to the ground, destroying the chapel, recitation and dining-rooms, cabinet of minerals and most of the philosophical apparatus, but with the aid of the Government a more modern building was erected. Dr. S. E. Bishop had charge from 1866 till 1877.

In 1877 the change was made from Hawaiian to English as a medium of education, and D. D. Baldwin was probably the first principal after the change, though H. R. Hitchcock was in charge for a number of years before 1885, when he resigned. Then followed Messrs.

Moore, Townsend, Abbott and Reavis. The present principal, C. A. MacDonald, arrived in 1903.

In 1904-5, three new buildings, a class-room and two dormitories, sanitary, fireproof, well-lighted, and airy, were erected. A printing-shop, a carpenter-shop, and a blacksmith shop are now well equipped. The printing press is run by machinery instead of foot-power and about 2700 copies of Hawaii's Young People are issued monthly. Taro culture and other farming which had been given up for a time because the water had been diverted to the plantations, has been resumed to an extent.

There are one hundred and ten boys now in the school, with a number waiting to enter. No tuition is paid, and an industrious, economical boy can earn enough in the summer vacation to pay all expenses for a year. Two of the six teachers are natives, and are very successful. The aim of the school is to develop character, and to teach the boys to work and to love work. Farming, shop-work and four hours a day in the class-room keep them busy. Saturday afternoon is for sports and Sunday for rest. Sunday School is held in the morning, and a song service for those who wish. Mr. Dodge holds a preaching service once a month, and they have a Christian Endeavor Society.

Hilo Boarding School, opened in 1836, has had but five principals; "Father Lyman," from 1836 till in the seventies, when Rev. W. B. Oleson took charge and finished out the 50 years. Mr. Arthur W. Burt of Oberlin from 1886-1890, Mr. and Mrs. Terry from 1890-1898, and Mr. Levi Lyman from 1898 to the present.

The school now has an attendance of almost 90 and includes at least eight nationalities. Many of these would not be able to attend were it not that they are allowed to work out part of their board in the shops of the industrial department. The shop accommodation for carpenters, wood-turners, blacksmiths and printers is full to the limit and more equipment is needed.

By special gifts from some of its friends, it has been able to secure another teacher in the school-room. Mr. Lyman has installed a juvenile court which does very effective work, making the welfare and honor of the school especially prominent.

Kohala Girls' School—is prospering under an entirely new corps of teachers. Miss Laura Balderston, principal, writes in her quaint Quaker style that the children are good and intensely interesting, that the work is fascinating and that she is becoming more and more infatuated with it. Miss Bertha Clark, (daughter of our Cousins), she says, is "proving herself just the person for the position, conscientious, patient, and untiring in her efforts, liked by every one."

Maunaolu—is having a prosperous year with a goodly number of pupils, good health, and a spirit of progress among teachers and pupils. A new matron, Mrs. Mason of Los Angeles, has been secured, a much needed donation of books has been received, and a new lighting plant will soon be installed.

Oahu College—has over 500 students this year, an increase of over 90 per cent. The new dormitories and dining-hall are in use, and the S. T. Alexander athletic field, and $15,000 has been added by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Cooke to their previous $20,000, for the new Library Fund.

Mid-Pacific Institute—the thought, is rapidly taking form in rock and cement. The Mid-Pacific Student says, "With the girls' building hastening to completion, and with $10,000 toward the boys' building, the managers should feel greatly encouraged. If the rate of progress of the last two years can be continued during the coming two years, the schools will all be comfortably housed in beautiful, healthful Manoa Valley.

JOTTINGS

There have been no wonderful lava flows, no earthquakes and no shipwrecks to record this year, but some absent Cousins may be interested in the following items:

On Feb. 22, the Floral Parade took place which excelled even that of last year.

On March 3rd, the Kilohana Art League held a reception and entertainment in honor of Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

On March 5th, was laid the corner-stone of the new High School building, to be called the McKinley High School. A bronze statue of the martyred president will be erected on the grounds and the remainder of the McKinley Fund will be used to endow a library.

On March 15th was held a grand temperance meeting in Central Union Church, a culmination of John G. Woolley's great work on the Islands.

On March 19th, the new Inter-Island steamship Mauna Kea took a large party on an excursion around the island of Kauai.

THE MOTHERS

Mother Parker—last year, from the brink of the river, sent back these words, "Give my love to all the friends," and like a benediction they seem to rest upon us still.

After the long wait she was carried gently to the other shore, the boatman's oars making scarcely a ripple on the sea of God's love. She has gone, after more than a hundred years of loving service, and the blessings radiating from her life are beyond our powers to estimate. She seemed to have so much sympathy to give out, so much helpfulness, so much vitality and life to bestow, that there must have been a close, constant and continued communion with the source of life. She made us better understand Zechariah's vision of the golden candlestick and the olive trees. "Not by might nor by power, but by my spirit saith the Lord." Mother Parker helped to lay the foundations of Christianity on these Islands and lived to see wonderful results, and to say, "Who shall despise the day of small things."

From "The Times" are taken the following lines:

Mother Parker

She has gone from earth, where she tarried long, And is listening now to heavenly song; The home she loved must be empty and bare, They hear not her voice—she needs not their care. She stood on the threshold many a year, Saw loved ones pass in with vision clear; God's time was her time as the years sped by, It was not with her to question why. Her work for time seemed done, quite done, Others taken, their work just begun; Why some are soon called and others are left, Wives and husbands, and children bereft— O, God, thou knowest what to us is dark, Thou canst see what is best for each frail bark; Anchored early or anchored late, We learn to trust and love, and wait.

A. E. Prescott.

Mother Rice—remains with us on the beautiful "garden island," Kauai. She has been spared acute physical suffering, and her mind is clear and vigorous. She spends her mornings by a western window which opens into a garden of brilliant shrubbery, and from under great spreading trees she looks across long miles of waving sugar-cane to mount Waialeale. Her walls are covered with photographs of children and friends, paintings of flowers and photographs of famous places, the gifts of friends. Here she writes family letters and reads, and here as dainty in appearance as you remember her, with her soft hair rippling over her forehead and ears, outlined by her headdress of black lace, she receives her friends, the many relatives and others calling by ones, twos and in groups on alternating days that they may not weary her. She talks of everything, besides giving sympathy and help to all. From this sacred place she sends us these lines which she loves and which have become a part of her life.

"Make a little fence of trust around thy day;
Fill the space with loving work, and therein stay;
Look not through the sheltering bars upon to-morrow,
God will help thee bear what comes of joy and sorrow."

Mother Bishop—says, "Mrs. Andrews asks for a few words from us older cousins who are not able to attend the gatherings of the Society. Let me then, from this Home-point, send the warm watchword of these Islands—'Aloha'—to the widely scattered members of the band in other lands,—America, Europe, China, Japan, and perhaps to some other more remote corners of the earth. Some of you will remember me as Mrs. S. E. Bishop who used to come yearly to Honolulu in the 50's and 60's. Going to Cousins' Meeting on a bright, moonlight night was one of the pleasantest events of those visits. Now my home is in one of the beautiful suburbs of Honolulu known as College Hills, which can be remembered by some of you as 'Punahou Pasture.' You will scarcely recognize it now with its streets and avenues, electric cars and pleasant residences. But lift your eyes and you'll be greeted by the same rugged mountains encircling it, and in the upper Manoa, the lovely valley still in its richness of ferns and verdure, with the splendor of the masses of white clouds rolling over the mountain tops. Here I am resting in the quiet years of old age, in the family of my daughter, Della, just waiting for the opening of the door which gives entrance to the future life where are gathered such a band of our noble Christian parents who have entered into their reward for the work done in this life. Perhaps they have gathered about them many Hawaiians to whom they brought the word of life. There are many now in Hawaii imbued with a similar spirit of love for the work in the Master's field, seemingly so ripe for the harvest.

"Aloha! Let the word, in its fullest meaning, ring around the world. Your cousin of eighty-two years—Cornelia A. Bishop."

Mother Forbes—sends love to all the Cousins, and wishes to be remembered.

"Aunt Mattie"—Miss Martha A. Chamberlain, writes, "My message to the H. M. C. Society is this, In 1904, when I was stricken down in the month of October, I did not think I would ever be able to write again to the Society, but now in March, 1908, I can use a pen, and though lamely, it seems a great blessing. God has in a measure restored my health and I can take a few steps with a cane, and with help get into a carriage, and once a week greatly enjoy a ride. My brain is still strong and I enjoy reading as much as ever; also the calls of friends. I love the whole Cousinhood as I ever did, and I bless God for his goodness, and for the kindness of friends showered upon me."

THE COUSINS

Since our last report, Rev. Frederick T. Rouse, who for eight years was pastor of a church of 1000 members in Appleton, Wisconsin, has been called to the first church of Omaha, and with wife and children has removed to this wider field.

Miss Emily B. Montague has been spending the winter with relatives at Northhampton, Mass., but her church home is at South Hadley and she hopes that some time the way may be open for her to live there again. She remembers old friends and wishes to keep in touch with them.

Dudley C. Bates gives his change of address to San Rafael, and says it is a great pleasure to read the names of the many who were his schoolboy friends and the items of interest about them and their children. It has been a source of sincere regret that his files of Reports were destroyed in the great fire. He sends Aloha to any of the Cousins who may remember him.

Mrs. E. M. Pease writes from Claremont, Cal., "Thank you for sending the Report. Mother Castle's face is a benediction. I always think of sunshine in connection with her. May the Cousins' Society always be, as it has been, a blessing to the world. I should love to be transported to Honolulu and enjoy the sweet fellowship of many whose kindness in the past I shall never forget."

E. M. Pease, from 35 Bassett St., Lynn, Mass., writes, "I wish to send my greetings to the Cousins, through you. My studies have brought me here to Boston, where I am studying at Howard Medical School, with the expectation of graduating this year. I wish I could express the appreciation I feel for all the kindness shown my father and mother while in the Islands, and the hospitality and cordiality which were extended to us all in your homes."

Miss E. D. Chapin writes, "You can hardly realize how much pleasure your gift of 'Picturesque Honolulu' has given me. Although born there in 1835, I have very little idea of the place and am greatly surprised at the beauty of the Islands."

Mrs. Hester L. Howard writes a lovely letter from which we quote a few sentences. "To my heart came the many items of news that the Report contains;—some items so sad that it makes me want to close the book and run and mourn with those that mourn; other items so free and happy that they make one wish she could live forever in this beautiful world! Dear Mother Castle's picture, how good it is! This report is a book I treasure much, and when I receive it I always think, How glad I am that I am a Cousin! Although I am not a missionary's daughter, I am a sister-in-law of one of your truest, most loyal and faithful of cousins, who passed on to glory years ago. For anything I may have done in missionary work that may have told for the Master, I give to her the credit. Mission study classes are being organized throughout Southern California, and we enjoy the study so much. In the study of the Hawaiian Islands I felt at home, and in trying to tell something about them I felt as if I were on a visit there."

Miss C. W. Paulding writes, "The Report is like a charming letter from a friend. If it gives me, an adopted cousin, so much pleasure, what must it be to the real members of the family scattered over the Then she tells of meeting Miss Bicknell, Miss Knapp and world." others.

Mrs. Jessie Cameron Bailey, in a letter from the mountains near Grass Valley, Cal., tells of the beauty of her home, and of her daughter Caroline, now at Mills Seminary having some lovely Island girls as room mates.

Mrs. Cornelia B. Damon writes, "What a fitting monument to the work of the Society is Mr. Cooke's gift of the Old Mission Home as a memorial of the early missionaries and their work! How I love my dear Hawaii, and how I long to be in your midst again! I often tell my children that no other place, dearly as I love New England, will ever seem home to me. I was transplanted too late ever to take deep root in any other soil."

Mrs. G. P. Andrews writes of the interesting and social life in Detroit. She speaks of Mrs. Lyman as president of the Woman's Board and says that Winnifred, as Foreign Secretary, reads at every meeting one of Lucia Lyons' letters from China.

Mrs. Mary Tinker Harvey writes, after many years, to tell of the death of her sister, Mrs. Marina Tinker Purdon. She gives her change of address, which occurred immediately after the great earthquake, from Oakland, Cal., to Roland Park, Maryland, a suburb of Baltimore.

Among many interesting incidents in the lives of Cousins was a Surprise Party given to Hon. William Waterhouse, when he was presented with a $200 solid silver fern dish on which was inscribed, "Presented to William Waterhouse as a token of esteem by fellow-citizens and friends, for his integrity, energy, and ability in the service of the whole people, as Mayor of the city of Pasadena from May, 1905 to May, 1907."

We are glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Waterhouse for a visit to the home of their childhood. May their stay be long and pleasant.

A Jubilee was celebrated at the Gilbert Islands last November. It was the fiftieth anniversary of the landing of Dr. and Mrs. Bingham. These islanders have purchased 11,000 Bibles, besides other books translated by Dr. Bingham, and he has now completed an English-Gilbertese dictionary of which his son, Hiram Bingham 3rd, of Yale University, has undertaken the publication, as a memorial to his father.

Among her many deeds of love, Mrs. J. B. Atherton has this year repaired and taken charge financially of the Chinese hospital of this city. She and her daughter and Miss Flaxman have recently gone on a trip to the Orient.

Capt. and Mrs. Garland have gone to be Father and Mother to the mission children at Tank Home, Oberlin, Ohio. Surely our loss is their gain, and that city of learning is to be congratulated.

It is a source of great pleasure to the Cousins of Honolulu that Rev. W. B. Oleson has been offered and has accepted the secretaryship of the Hawaiian Board.

Mrs. C. M. Hyde also came to attend the 20th Anniversary of the Kamehameha Schools, and finding so many old friends remained for the winter. It really seems that the years have rolled backward, and we enjoy having her come in and go out among us.

Cousin C. A. Bailey, from the mountains near Grass Valley, has made a flying visit to Honolulu and Maui. He finds many changes, but, on the whole, the Islands look very natural. He said he felt hungry to hear some pure Hawaiian, and thinking he could get it at its best at Kawaiahao church went to hear Rev. H. H. Parker preach.

In June of 1907, Rev. and Mrs. Baker of Kona were thrown from their carriage and received severe injuries from which, we are glad to say, they have recovered.

Owing to an extra $1500 given by the American Missionary Society to the Hawaiian Board for the purpose of placing a Sunday School missionary superintendent on these Islands, a call has been made out to Rev. Henry Judd, who has accepted the position and is expected home very soon.

Cousin Julia Gulick is expected home on a visit in July.

Our Cousins, Dr. and Mrs. Shepard of Aintab were given an ovation on Oct. 17, the twenty-fifth anniversary of their arrival. It should have occurred on the 10th, but a telegraphic call from a patient caused the Dr. to say "That patient's life is worth more than all this celebration." The Missionary Herald says, "The First Church, which accommodates more than 3,000 people, was filled with an audience from all the nationalities and all the religions of the land, and many were listening through the windows." All the speakers spoke of the skill which would easily have earned a fortune for himself had he not freely given it to the people. Mrs. Shepard's services in the industrial training of the women was also emphasized. A "Shepard Fund" was started, to be used for a new hospital.

Cousin Lucy Andrews, from Orange, N. J., writes in a business letter to Mrs. Reitow of Honolulu, "We sent you a consignment of Armenian needlework, yesterday, by registered mail. You will find just a few pieces of New York novelties which we carry in order to bring our stock up to date, since our base of supplies is half way round the world."

Mrs. Annie Brigman has won for herself fame as an artist, not only in London but more recently in New York City, the freshness and originality of her "lens studies" among the Sierras being greatly admired.

The annual migration of the Cousins is beginning early this year. Gov. and Mrs. Frear and W. O. Smith will leave on April 22, soon to be followed by others.

One favor is asked—that all changes in address be reported to the secretary before the following annual report goes to press, in May of each year. We will also consider it a kindness if you can supply the correct address of those whose place of residence is unknown.

Glad wedding bells have rung merrily through the year, and half a score of Cousins have pledged their troth at the marriage altar. First, Dr. Edgar Alexander was married at San Rafael, in May, 1907, and took his bride for a year's stay in Europe, and soon after Charles Wetmore Deacon was married in Berkeley. Then Richard Cooke in November, and Frederick Damon in January, found brides among our own fair Honolulu girls. Harold Rice in December, and Charles A. Hartwell in January, found none so fair as the Cousins Charlotte Baldwin and Cordelia Carter. Elsie Waterhouse was claimed by one in far off London, while Florence Hall found her ideal in Honolulu. Dr. James Judd in February, and Harold Dillingham also in Feb., were married in San Francisco and have brought their brides to Honolulu. The Cousins congratulate themselves that so many of these young people remain on the Islands, and hope soon to welcome the new-comers into the cousinhood.

Perhaps the gladdest, if not the merriest bells were the golden bells that proclaimed the fiftieth anniverary of the wedding of D. D. Baldwin and his bride. A life history by Mr. Baldwin, an address by Dr. W. D. Alexander, and a poem, were some of the interesting events of the day.

Yet some hearts have responded to minor strains, and bells tolling for departed dear ones have made them sad. More than a year ago, Mrs. W. W. Hall lost her mother, Mrs. Van Cleve of Minneapolis, and in September of this year, Mrs. Ida C. Green, the faithful and loved wife of Frank Green, and sister of our Laura, passed away. In Dover, N. H., Feb. 12th, Henry W. Severance, former U. S. Consul General at Honolulu, and brother of Mrs. A. S. Parke and of our Cousin Luther Severance of Hilo, died, and word has just been received of the death, on Nov. 18, 1907, of Mrs. Abbie Marina Tinker Purdon.

Mrs. Purdon was born on the whaling vessel "Wm. Penn," in 1841, when her parents were returning from these islands. She was married from the home of her brother, Hon. Robert Tinker of Rockville, Ill., to the Rev. Dr. Henry Purdon of Saint James' Memorial Church, Titusville, Pa., where they lived until his death in 1898, nearly thirty years. Her second daughter, Alice, died in 1906, and of the happy household, only one daughter, Marina, remains.

In December, 1906, our Cousin, Edward Taylor, died at Valparaiso, Chili. Though far from home, he had every care in his sickness and the attention of most faithful nurses.

Cousin Mary Dame Hall lay ill for months at Galen Hall Sanatorium, Atlantic City, and though everything was done for her that could be done, she passed away on March 16, 1908.

Cousin Amasa Pratt, for nine years, during the 70's, a teacher at Punahou College, afterward a resident of Maui for a time, and for many years instructor of the deaf and dumb, died at his home in Columbus, Ohio, on Aug. 8, 1907.

These all went aboard the home-bound spirit-car at other stations, but in Honolulu we stood by the flower-decked casket of Cousin Sara H. Clark, heard the soft music, the uplifting remarks of the minister, and best of all the comforting words of Jesus, and death did not seem a thing to dread.

The little "Buds of Promise," Samuel Alexander Waterhouse and Edward Winne Boyen, lent a few short years to gladden earthly homes, were not even permitted to know the blighting effects of sin and sorrow, but were early transplanted to the gardens of delight.

And when the link was broken that bound us, as Cousins, to the far distant past, and Mother Parker left us, death seemed only the breaking of a chain that set a captive free. "O Death, where is thy sting! O, grave, where is thy victory!"

And now the cabled news of the death of Mrs. Cornelia Beckwith Damon has again cast a shadow over the hearts of Honolulu Cousins. A bright light has gone out, for her presence carried joy and gladness everywhere. Her busy hands, her radiant smile, her ready song and cheering words were ever at the command of her friends, and were freely given to the stranger, the lonely and the sick. Her sufferings were expressed in tears of sympathy for others, and her sorrows made rainbows for those about her. One can almost hear her voice now in the celestial choir, and heaven again draws near.

Now, therefore, know ye that I, the said Alexander J. Campbell, as such Treasurer as aforesaid, and by and with the consent of the Governor of the Territory and in the exercise and execution of every power and authority in any wise enabling me in this behalf, do hereby constitute the members of the said association a body corporate under the name of The Hawaiian Mission Children's Society for the term of fifty years for the purposes aforesaid with power by that name in their corporate capacity to sue and be sued, to adopt and use a seal and the same to alter at pleasure, to take, purchase, receive, hold, sell and convey such real and personal estate as the purposes of the corporation shall require, not exceeding in the whole sum the value of $100,000.00 and to mortgage the same to secure any debt of the cor-

The property of the said corporation shall alone be liable for payment of its debts and liabilities.

In witness whereof I hereby set my hand and official seal this 10th day of August, A. D. 1907.

(Signed) A. J. CAMPBELL, Treasurer Territory of Hawaii.

I hereby consent to the granting of the foregoing Charter this 14th day of August, A. D. 1907.

(Signed) G. R. CARTER,
Governor of Hawaii.

THE MISSIONARY LIBRARY.

The time has come when our Society undertakes as a body to do that work for the Hawaiian Mission which has heretofore been done by individual members, and that is to conserve the written and printed records, which will hold up to the present and future ages a mirror reflecting the lofty purpose and the strenuous endeavor in those sainted lives which have passed over the stage and gone into the wings. We should know their lives that we and our descendants may emulate their deeds.

We solicit contributions from our members and our friends, from any material which they have which is not too personal or too sacred for use in a library. We are ready now to take care of such material, and we expect to find ample room for expansion in the future.

A museum of relics of pioneer times other than library material is a possession which we hope to attain at no distant time.

The Library is at the Old Mission Home, 583 S. King St., and the present P. O. Address, 707 Wyllie St., Honolulu, H. I.

R. W. Andrews, Custodian.

Annual Reports 46, 48, and 49 (for the years 1898, 1900, and 1901) are out of print; of numbers 4 and 5 we have less than five each; of numbers 26 and 39, less than ten each; and of numbers 20 and 38, less than twenty each.

It is desirable that our Library should have more than the single complete set which we have, bound; and we beg to inform our members of the scarcity, so that when they are looking over their books and find any of the above mentioned numbers which are not needed for their own sets, they may give us the benefit of the discovery.
